Preface

The journal of Current Bioactive Compounds (CBC) plays a pivotal role in disseminating the most important advances in natural bioactive compounds, small molecule drug discovery, bioactive peptides, and pharmaceutical analysis. My vision for the journal involves expanding contributors and readers (geographic, ethnic, and gender balance), increasing authors’ satisfaction, increasing submissions, citations, and visibility of the journal. The hot topics will be more focused on emerging areas within medicinal chemistry and drug discovery.

I would like to see new authors find a home at CBC and increase submissions from researchers in Europe and other underrepresented areas in the long run. My vision for CBC is to be among the best choice for authors to publish their medicinal chemistry research and to enjoy the experience of publishing with us.

A special thank to the Editorial Office, the Editorial Board Members, our contributors, and readers.
